CW 3/31

Group wants coaches of any race to have a chance in college sports
A group says there are not enough black and Hispanic coaches on college sports teams. It has called on the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) to make a new rule. The NCAA manages college sports and under the new rule, colleges would have to interview black and Hispanic people for top jobs.

The group asking for the change is the National Association for Coaching Equity and Development (NACED). Many black and Hispanic coaches belong to it.
